

6516206398.txt

I support satellite radio and believe it should be able to broadcast local programming, from weather to sports. As consumers, we pay for it. As consumers, we have chosen it because, at times, it suits our needs better than traditional radio. Would you shut down Bloomingdales' purse department because people might buy their purses there rather than Walmart? Well, maybe Walmart should figure out a way to better differentiate themselves. That's how things are done in a capitalist system.